

REBELS WHO ATTACK TAMPICO IN DEFEAT

REPORTED REPULSED WITH BIG
LOSS OF MEN—FEDERALS
STILL CONFIDENT.

POSITION IS SHELLED

Gunboat Bravo in Action—No Change
in Relative Position of the Combatants.

Vera Cruz, Dec. 12.—The rebel forces attacking Tampico were repulsed and driven away from the city with heavy loss, according to Gen. Gustavo Maas, military commander here, who says that federal troops under Gen. Joaquin Maas, Jr., arrived to the relief of Tampico yesterday.

Up to nine o'clock this morning no
further communication had been received here from Rear Admiral Fletcher.

It was understood that late yesterday afternoon no communication was opened between Tampico and Mexico City.

Telegraph Lines Re-opened.

Mexico City, Dec. 12.—The Mexican seaport of Tampico was still in the hands of the federal troops at a late hour last night. The managers of the federal telegraph reported early today that the telegraph line from Tampico to San Luis Potosi had been reopened after having been interrupted
since the beginning of the fighting.

The federal war minister, General
Blanco, appears to regard Tampico
as safe.

Shell Rebel Position.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Wireless dispatches from Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander of the United States cruiser Tacoma, sent at 1:00 p. m. yesterday, say the federal gunboat Bravo
was shelling the constitutionalist position; that there was no change in the relative position of the combatants and that the United States
gunboat Wheeling was in the river close to the fighting. The federal garrison was estimated at 3,000, while the constitutionalists claimed about 6,000. Rear Admiral Fletcher also stated that 150 refugees were on the American gunboat, 150 on the British steamer Locust, 350 on the Kron Princessin Cecilia, a German vessel, and 500 in the buildings ashore in the neutral zone.

The cruiser Raleigh has been ordered from San Francisco to Mazatlan on the Pacific side.

Ojinaga Awaits Attack.

Presidio, Tex., Dec. 12.—The situation at Ojinaga, Mexico, where the federal troops have concentrated today, was one of waiting, in anticipation of a rebel attack. Rebel bands were reported to be increasing in number outside the village, but were believed to be waiting for reinforcements which were expected to arrive from Chihuahua. The federalists probably will be under siege, but will have the advantage of being able to take provisions and clothing from the United States side.

YOUNG RETIREMENT EXCITES CITIZENS

Chicago Supporters of Former Superintendent Will Take Vengeance
on Aldermen.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—No single incident of the politics of recent years in this city has caused such excitement
as the forced resignation of William Young as superintendent of schools,
according to political leaders, and the subject, it is said, is bound to assume importance in the aldermanic election
next spring.

Barrett O'Hara, lieutenant governor of Illinois, has suggested a strike of school children as a protest against the action of the school board, and club women assert that the meeting called for tomorrow night will have a large attendance.

Mrs. Young was engaged far into the night and again today receiving callers who came in to deliver their verdict on her resignation. She has accepted a position as educational editor of a Chicago newspaper and says that under the law her successor
 has been legally elected, and saw no way to compel her reinstatement.

PRESIDENT MUCH BETTER BUT MUST STAY IN BED

Washington, Dec. 12.—President
Wilson's cold was improved today,
but he was ordered by his physician to remain in bed. The president wants to attend the Gridiron Club dinner here tomorrow night, but there was doubt that his physicians would permit him to go out doors tomorrow Monday at the earliest.

firmation of the refusal of the Costa Rican congress to ratify the oil concessions sought by the British concern with which Lord Cowdray is connected, was received here today.

today Frank Dresden of Richland sentence in the Dane county jail and a fine of $200 on his plea of guilty to selling liquor without paying revenue taxes.

SPANISH ROYAL PARTY
LEAVES PARIS FOR MADRID

Paris, Dec. 12.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain left today

President Poincaré, Premier Doumergue and Stephen Pichon, former foreign companied them to the station.

TANGO PARTY IS GIVEN
DESPITE RAN ON DANCE

Neenah, Dec. 12.—Notwithstanding the fact that the tango and fancy dances are prohibited by all organizations giving a series of dances
here, a tango party was given by the Young Men's club at which all the late dances were permitted.

DEMAND FOR LABOR SHOWS A DECREASE

Wisconsin Labor Market Suffers a Depression, But Predict Greater Activity in January.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 12.—The depression in the labor market noted in the reports of the state free employment offices in October became more marked in November. For every one hundred jobs there were 145 applications for employment during this month, but in October there were only 107 and in November of last year there were only 101 applicants for every 100 jobs. The women's department of the employment offices for the first time in several years shows
a greater supply of labor than demand. For every 100 women wanted
there were 113 applicants for work in November, whereas a month ago
the applicants numbered only 88 and in November, 1912, only 85.

An unusual amount of unemployment was reported from all parts of the state, except in the vicinity of Superior, where construction and road work during the early part of the month absorbed many laborers.
The prospect for December continues unfavorable, although in several lines
of industry plans for resuming activity in January are being made. The depression seems to be general
throughout the country. Many working people have come to Madison
from other states expecting to find better conditions only to be disappointed here.

The demand for farm hands fell off
more than 50 per cent in November
as compared with October and about the same amount as compared with November of last year. There was a still greater falling off in demand for building trade workers as compared with October, although the comparison with last year shows a smaller reduction.

Lumber Camps Supplied.

General laborers for unskilled work are less in demand than last year at this time and since October there has been a falling off in demand of about 50 per cent. Work in the woods was quite active during November but toward the end of the month reports came from many quarters that the camps were filled. Track work for the railroads is also practically all completed.

Women's employment offices report
an increasing number of married women looking for day work and an unusually large number of girls willing to take domestic service.

WHITE SLAVE CASES TO BE PROSECUTED

Department of Justice Denies That There Has Been Any Relaxation or Change in Motive.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 12.—Direct denial from the department of justice that there has been any relaxation in the prosecution of white slave cases was made before the senate today by Senator Kern.

"No order to stop white slave prosecution in cases not involving con-mercialism has been issued and no
new regulations as to the enforcement of the act have been made since the incumbency of the new attorney general," said the department of justice member.

"On the contrary, the department of justice has adhered to the practice adopted immediately after passage of the law followed during the previous administration."

Senator Jones insisted, however,
that reputable attorneys in the state of Washington had received information of apparently authentic character that the cases of white slave traffic were being prosecuted.

U. S. BATTLESHIP
VERMONT CRIPPLED

Vermont Limping Toward Hampton Roads With Starboard Main Shaft
Broken and Compartments Flooded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 12.—With her starboard main shaft broken and several compartments flooded the battleship Vermont is limping toward Hampton roads on her return from the Mediterranean cruise under convoy of the cruiser Oregon and the battleship Orion and Jason. The accident occurred at 3:45 a. m. yesterday, and at 8 o'clock last night the Vermont was 1,200 miles from Hampton Roads and 600 miles from Bermuda.

A radiogram from Rear Admiral Badger, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, describing the accident
said there was no cause for alarm.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 12.—Quiet reigned in the copper strike district
last night and this morning. Strikers in Calumet were prevented from parading by deputies who feared trouble
and no parades were held anywhere in the district. The Western "Coca-ra" of miners' supply store in Calumet
and six loaded rifles confiscated.
Timothy Driscoll, a deputy sheriff,
shot yesterday at South Range, probably will recover.

MASTERPIECES BY WATTS ON WHITEHOUSE WALLS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Dec. 12.—"Love and Life," one of the masterpieces of George Frederic Watts, has returned to its place on the walls of the White house. This place of art has probably been the subject of more controversies than any other of the many that hang in the Federal Building here. The painting was presented to the United States government in 1804 and was accepted by an act of congress. It has twice suffered removal from the White House because of objections to the "nude" in art.

TO HEAR ARGUMENTS IN CORN SYRUP CASE

Corn Products Refining Company
Would Restrain Enforcement of Wisconsin Statute.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 12.—Arguments
in the case of the Corn Products Refining Company against Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery to restrain the enforcement of the 1913
statute requiring the use of the name
"corn syrup" for packages of so-called corn syrup shipped in interstate commerce for consumption in Wisconsin,
will be heard in the federal court here
on Dec. 16, Judge A. L. Sanborn here siding. The arguments will center on motions made by the company to have struck from the commissioner's answer certain claims put up in defense.
The company insists it can label its product as pure cane syrup and compactly with the law. Commissioner Emery insists this cannot be done, as the ingredient called corn syrup is the ordinary commercial glucose and has never been known as anything else.
In its complaint the company tells how much it has spent to advertise its product, specifying that $125,000 has been expended in Wisconsin. Commissioner Emery replied that a large part of this amount was spent at times
and in such manner as to influence legislation in the company's favor.
The company moved to strike out this part of the answer, as well as several other matters not considered important or relevant.

BOMB IN EXPRESS PARCEL IS FATAL

Young Woman Employee in New York
Bottling Works is Killed by Powerful Explosion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Dec. 12.—A bomb sent by express exploded and instantly killed a young woman employee named Anna Anuskevitch in an up town bottling works today and injured two men employees. The girl's head was nearly torn off.

The package was addressed to Thomas McCabe, one of the office force. He was standing near the girl when she opened it. His left ear was torn off, and Michael Ryan, another employee, was cut by flying glass.

The package containing the bomb
was addressed to the bottling company in stencil. It was received by McCabe, who placed it on the girl's desk.

The force of the explosion wrecked
the room, shattering the plate glass windows and tearing a ragged hole in the floor. Inasmuch as the force seemed to be downward, the police believe dynamite had been used.

Employees of the company connect it with the explosion with the alleged discharge recently of thirty workmen
by the company. Callaghan, the proprietor, however, denied having discharged the workmen, and told the police they were there today.

"To the best of my knowledge I have no enemies," Callaghan said. "The attack is a mystery to me."

Within an hour several squads of detectives were working on the case.

WIDE DIFFERENCES ON EXPRESS RATES

State Commissions and Interstate Commerce Commission's Differences.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Prospects of an apparently irreconcilable difference between advocates of uniform express rates all over the country and state commissions, which have developed their own rates developed today in the conference here of the National Association of State Railway Commissioners. All sections of the country are represented.

The commissioners have been considering for two days the possibility of making intra-state rates uniform with the national rates of the interstate commerce commission. The federal commission is represented by W. A. Ryan, who today explained and defended the national rate. T. B.
Harrison of New York, chairman of the joint committee of the express companies, has been a leader in the fight for uniform rates.

With the submission of figures,
however, showing the advantage which some states enjoy through the reduction effected by their commissioners, it became apparent that the uniform rate had encountered opposition that probably will prevent its recommendation by the state's organization.

HARRY DOROW SANE

Alleged Murderer of Mrs. Emily Will Must Stand Trial—Refuses to Discuss Events.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Dec. 12.—The commission of alienists appointed to examine the mental condition of Harry Dorow, aged 34, alleged murderer of Mrs. Emily Will, unanimously reported to Judge Backus today that Dorow is sane. This means that he must stand trial on the charge of murder.
Dorow claimed during the examination, physicians say, that his mind was a blank at the time Mrs. Will was murdered, and refused to discuss in any way the events leading up to the murder.

HALF MILLION FIRE SUBDUED IN COHOES

Dozen Buildings and Manufacturing Plants Destroyed—Tray Firemen Respond to Call.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cohoes, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Fire which broke out in the part of this city's business section early today was subdued shortly before 8 o'clock, after a dozen buildings and manufacturing
plants had been destroyed with a loss of half a million dollars. One fireman was badly hurt by a falling wall.

The fire started in the Parsons
Knitting Mill at Factory and Remsen streets, and within two hours had swept away the blocks west to the bare canal. The firemen responded to an appeal for help.

The following plants were swept by the fire: R. S. Clark & Son, printers; Capitol Knitting Company, E. B. Supply Co., Ross Underwear Company, William Moore Knitting Company, National Textile Company, United Waist Manufacturing Company, Parsons Mill, and Halcron Mill.

BURGLARS ARRESTED AFTER HARD FIGHT

Patrolman Captures Them On Fourth Floor Fire Escape Landing of Hotel Morrison.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—James Jacobson, patrolman, after a spectacular fight with two alleged burglars on the fourth floor fire escape of the Hotel Morrison early today, arrested the men. Later the prisoners were identified as the two who recently attempted to hold up a down town restaurant.

Jacobson, while on his beat, saw
the men ascending the fire escape and cautiously followed. The men attempted to kick him from the ladder,
but he beat them back with his club.
The men threw a window into a corridor of the hotel and held them until a patrol wagon arrived.

INVESTIGATE DEATH
MRS. HELEN M'KAY

Prominent New York Woman Passes Away at Hospital While Under Influence of Ether.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Dec. 12.—A coroner's physician began today an investigation of the death of Mrs. Helen Mackay, widow of the Rev. Dr. Donald Sage Mackay, for many years pastor of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas on Fifth avenue, and president of the General Synod of the United Churches in America. Mrs. Mackay died yesterday afternoon under the influence of ether on the operating table in a private hospital where she had registered a few hours before as Mrs. M. Storer of Boston.

A scrap of paper in her hand-bag
upon which she had scribbled her name and address, led to her identification. The belief that she was suffering from an incurable disease led her to visit the hospital for an examination, according to the theory of the coroner. Ether was given at her own request and for the purpose of aiding in the examination. Heart failure under the anesthetic caused death.

After an autopsy Dr. Otto H.
Schultze, the coroner's physician, announced that a minor operation had been performed upon Mrs. Mackay.
He added that before officially stating the cause of death he would confer with Dr. Henry Weil, Mrs. Mackay's physician. Mrs. Mackay visited Dr.
Weil's office last Wednesday and arranged for the operation.

IN FIGHT OF GANGS

Street Car Used As a Barricade by One Element—Passengers Throw Themselves on Floor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Dec. 12.—Fifty shots were fired this morning near the Fourth avenue entrance to Madison Square Garden in a conflict between two gangs that have infested the garden during the six day bicycle race.
A Madison avenue street car was commandeered by one element as a barricade while the other whizzed in all directions. Passengers threw themselves face downward on the floor.
The police were prompt in reaching the scene, but the combatants jumped into automobiles and escaped. So far as is known, no one was wounded.
The fact in view of promiscuous shooting. It is said the trouble started in a row over the right of rival leaders to furnish "strong arm" men
for special police work in the garden.

Teaching Advertising in The Colleges

Advertising is reaching the dignity of a science.

Some of the country's leading universities have put in classes of advertising this year.

Active clubs of business men are meeting everywhere to study
the appeal of the types.

You can see the progress advertising is making on study
the columns of this newspaper
from day to day.

You can see it calling daily for better writers, for cleverer pic-
turers, for new ideas.

If you could run over the files
of this newspaper a year back
—or better yet, five years back
—and compare the advertising of today with that of the other days, you would be amazed at the improvement.

It shows that the world is moving and that we are improving each day and going forward.

INDIANS TO ENTER A GIGANTIC CLAIM

Five Hundred Ottawas and Chippewas
In Michigan Assert Two Hundred Million Damage.

Macinaw City, Mich., Dec. 12.—Approximately five hundred Ottawa and Chippewa Indians in Michigan before the first of the year will enter a claim for $200,000,000 against the United States government for alleged deprivation of valuable lands and fishing rights on the great lakes. Several attorneys who have investigated the claim, which is the largest ever entered against the public domain by the Indians, say it is valid.

The former claims of similar nature
made by these Indians were recognized by the government and something over $200,000 was paid to the tribe.

The validity of the largest demand hinges upon the interpretation of the treaty of 1833 between the government and twelve Indian tribes, including the Ottawas and Chippewas.
Under the terms of this treaty, the red men signed away all the rights to the land where South Chicago, with its gigantic steel mills and factories is located, and to all the Great Lakes Islands and to unrestricted fishing rights in lake water as well as to the lands of enormous value in Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan.

called to testify in the trial of Hans Schmidt, the former priest, charged with the murder of Anna Ammiller

torney Charles Thompson called as a

"and said he was going to give up the priesthood and marry her."

asked that it be treated. He said he had had an accident."

Janesville will raise $157,215 for city purposes, $3,715.91 in special assessments for given improvements and special services, $79,174.52 for state and county, and $33,510.56 in income taxes. Of the special assessments the largest item is for street improvement bonds, amounting to $3,656.85, while $1,273.10 will be raised to pay for oiling in those cases where settlement has not already been made.

For the various wards real and personal property taxes will be collected as follows: First $60,633.77; Second, $43,966.39; Third, $73,488.02; Fourth, $42,633.15; Fifth, $22,605.50.

The valuation of Janesville property according to the 1913 assessment is $15,312,260, real estate being assessed at $11,341,790 and personal property at $3,970,470. The rate of taxation, as has been stated previously, is $15.44 a thousand, so that if property owners know what their assessed valuation is, it is easy to figure out the amount of taxes which they will have to pay.

It is probable that there will be a great rush of business at the treasurer's office the first week, and persons seeking to avoid a crowd and perhaps a long wait would do well to make their settlement early. No extra help will be employed in the treasurer's office for the present.

City's Low Tax Rate.
Janesville's tax rate still remains the lowest of any city in the state as far as can be learned. At Janesville the rate is $26.50 on thousand valuation. The city is raising $447.31 on an assessed valuation which is but slightly higher than Janesville's, being $16.80 a thousand. The increase in state, county, taxes and a hydrant rental item of $67,000, ordered by the railroad commission, tell the story of Green Bay's high rate.

Oshkosh's managers to show a decrease in rate by economy in city expenditures. The rate is $17.50 against $21.50 last year. Oshkosh's assessed valuation is $29,503,000.

At Monroe the rate is $17 on a thousand assessed value, 1912, a total of $87,500 being raised.

At Richland Center the rate is $29.40, which is twenty cents on a thousand lower, but there will be practically no relief as the assessment has been raised.

At Beaver Dam the rate is $23.20, an increase of $2.30; at Antigo the rate is $29; at Waubesa, $28.20; at Portage, $29; and $26.50 at Eau Claire.

CARRY BIG TRAFFIC ON HENNEPIN CANAL

Four Hundred Thousand Tons of Commercial Freight Carried Besides Government Tonnage.

Those who have come to believe that commerce on the canals and rivers of the middle-west has ceased or declined to a negligible quantity, and that the Rock river would not carry a ton of freight, may be surprised to find that the figures showing the traffic on the Hennepin canal between the Rock and Illinois rivers during the first eleven months of the calendar year, submitted by Captain L. L. Wheeler, assistant engineer. The figures show that the total mile tonnage carried on government boats was 413,427. The local mile tonnage of commercial business was 463,428, making a total mile tonnage of 876,855. To carry the same amount of tonnage would require 2,323 large freight cars with capacity of 100 tons each. Following are the quantities and kinds of freight carried:

Materials transported by the United States: 12,289 tons of earth, 4,830 sand and gravel, 6,055 rock, 2,028 concrete blocks, 1,333 coal, 10 lumber, 64 miscellaneous freight, 25 ice, 21 tons of cement. Total mile-tonnage 413,427.

Materials transported by commercial interests: Miscellaneous freight, 5 tons; coal, 1,883; salt, 2,090; corn, 3,893; oats, 1,768; wheat, 171; rye, 62. Total mile-tonnage of commercial business, 463,428.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, try the wonderful "California Syrup of Figs." In a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and indigestible food will gently move out of the bowels, and your child will be playful and again.

Sick children need to be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." It contains directions for babies, children, or all ages and gives a full, plain explanation of the use of the medicine. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

FIRST SPEEDER IS BROUGHT TO COURT

Oscar Callison Brought Before Judge Maxfield Thursday Afternoon—Trial Set for Dec. 22.

Oscar L. Callison, automobile driver at the Tarrant & Osgood grocery, and residing on East Milwaukee street, was brought before Judge Harry Maxfield at the municipal court yesterday afternoon on the complaint of Chief of Police Ransom on the charge of speeding. Evidence had been gathered against Callison for some time, and it is alleged that he was driving his delivery car at an excessive rate Wednesday when the papers were sworn out for his arrest.

When the warrant was read to him by Judge Maxfield Callison declared himself "not guilty," and his trial was set for Monday, Dec. 22, at two o'clock. A fine of not less than ten dollars or more than two hundred covers the offense. Complaints have been made that Callison was in the habit of opening his muffler to the limit when on the main streets, causing an unnecessary amount of noise. This is the first arrest following the orders of the Fire and Police Commission, and it is expected that there are several more to follow.

Robert Sage, a Delavan youth, was arraigned for speeding in municipal court this morning. Sentence was suspended by Judge Maxfield upon the payment of costs.

The conditions here most excellent, and the hazards reported on his last visit, to have been remedied and generally speaking, improved to the exact requirements of the law. Especially the true of elevators which he found in bad condition two years ago but which have since been remedied. In fact Mr. Evans says there are no violations existing at present in the city and he is more than pleased to find the manufacturers are most anxious to remedy any defect which is pointed out to them.

SUPPRESSING NEWS.

One of the unpleasant features connected with publishing a newspaper is the inability to comply with constantly recurring requests to suppress items of news. The requests come from people who have relatives or friends in trouble, and it is always difficult for them to understand why a newspaper can't refrain from this kind of publicity.

Three requests of this kind came to the office yesterday and not a day passes but that this class of favors are asked. There are two or three reasons why they can not be granted. In the first place the mission of a newspaper is to publish the news. This is what the people pay for and what they demand.

Again, a newspaper is compelled to be impartial, and when it ceases to be this, it is no longer a newspaper.

Perhaps the most important reason is found in the fact that publicity acts as a warning and where crime is involved, and becomes a matter of court record, the welfare of society and public safety demand the facts.

The sympathy of the editor may be with the unfortunate, as it usually is, but this will not excuse him from a duty which he owes the public. The Gazette makes this plain statement, not as an excuse for publishing the news, but in explanation of an obligation which people in trouble do not always appreciate.

THE RIGHT SYSTEM.

It is interesting to note that all the reports from commission ruled cities, are a unit in endorsing the plan. The city of Memphis, after four years' experience, comes to the front with the lowest tax levy in its history, while improvements in the way of better streets and better conditions generally are very noticeable. It is always easier to criticize than to commend, but every unprejudiced mind will admit that Janesville is better governed today than ever before. Public money is not being squandered, and political graft is a thing of the past. Moral conditions are also improved and the commission plan is making good.

WAIT A LITTLE!

If the president and his busy helpers will postpone the work of regulation, for a little while, they may discover that many things will regulate themselves, as the trend of the times is in that direction. You can't always make a horse drink after leading him to the trough, and capital and business are much like a horse in this respect. It is possible to regulate it to a standstill, and when this occurs, a lot of theoretical problems settle themselves. The Chicago bread line is an object lesson which the president might study to advantage.

THE STATUS OF THAW.

Harry K. Thaw, of court fame, is now held at Concord, New Hampshire, while efforts are being made to discover what his status is. When this is determined he may be extradited to New York, and then again he may not. Much seems to depend upon how his money holds out. As a star performer in the courts of both the United States and Canada, he holds the record. His managers ought to send him west, for a while. He would be a good drawing card in most any community.

A DISTINCTIVE LOSS.

The forced retirement of Ella Plagg Young from the schools of Chicago is a loss which the parents of more than 300,000 children sincerely regret. A fight was made on Mrs. Young, six months ago, but the protest against her resignation as superintendent was so universal that she was persuaded to remain. Harmony in the board, however, has not improved, and conditions became unbearable. Politics is the direct cause of the trouble, for which Mayor Harrison is held responsible.

The Chicago woman has decided to break the egg market. Which is probably only another way of saying that she has made up her mind to put her foot down on it.

Mr. Asquith has had from grillwork placed on his automobile to protect him from suffragists. Thus hath the Black Maria come to aristocratic usage.

President Wilson's addresses are as brief and pithy as would be expected from a man who operated his typewriter with one finger.

"All the newspapers in Mexico City support Huerta." There is no news in that. But there soon would be if one of them didn't.

The main objection to organizing a volunteer army before declaring war is that each makes the other so much easier.

It is said that woman's clothing will be thinner than ever next summer. And still women don't like freckles.

If Huerta is no longer able to pay his soldiers, the finish of Hon. Huerta is easily within eyeshot.

On the Spur of the Moment

Our Barber. Ezra Winks has written the following poetic effusion for the Hoopville Echo.

"If you should wish an easy shave, As good as barber ever gave, Just call at Wick's shaving place.

"I'll cut your hair with perfect grace, To suit the contour of your face, And all that skill and art can do, With pleasure will do for you.

"You'll find things here both nice and clean, With scissors sharp and razors keen; And a steady hand you'll also see, For I never go upon a spree.

"The ladies, too, I wish to see, Please get your barbering done with me; You'll find my towels nice and clean, And I will treat you like a queen.

"And now that I have said my say, You'll see that I have come to stay; My days I hope to spend with you, And hope it may be pleasant, too."

The Beautiful.

Wise poets of old sing of the beautiful sun, but they speak not of mud or of slush, which comes when the sun melts the glistening white and causes the rivers to gush. We agree with those bards, 'tis a wonderful sight to see. It comes floating down till it spreads a clear blanket over meadows and lawn, and whitens the streets of the town. It's great to see blizzards come howling along, piling snow into woodshed and bower; it's great to dig paths through drifts as your head just to see them fill up in an hour. It's great to hear mother or wife or sister and stow if you track in a bit; or to be made the target of six or eight kids each one with an aim sure to hit. A snowstorm is fine to observe from within; to watch others break paths is great sport, but to step out and meet a northeastern headon is a joy that I never do court.

The Diary of the Bonehead.

"I would like to have you meet the Bliggins. They are swell folks," said I to my wife the other day.

Last evening we were invited to their house to dinner and my wife and I went. Particularly did we meet Mrs. Bliggins. Mrs. Bliggins had on a $150 gown trimmed with ermine. She whispered the name of her dress-maker to my wife.

This evening I got a bill from a store for $115 for dress material, and my wife told me I would get a bill for the making of the gown later. The new gown will be trimmed with ermine.

Times Are Changing.

Our granddads make a lot of noise on how they won prosperity. But there ain't no use talkin' boys. Things ain't quite like they used to be.

Our granddads had to hustle then. Indeed they did, yes, squire, Bob; But there were never fifteen men Applying for most every job.

I'd like to see my granddad pay a dollar for a sirloin steak; I'd like to hear what he would say; I'd like to see the fuss he'd make.

Our grandmas never did appear, Responding to dictates of style, In seven or eight hats a day. Were granddads lucky? I should smile.

Hickeyville Items.

Miss Amy Pringle is knitting a necktie for some fellow for Christmas, and since it got noised around there ain't been no young man barging around her millinery store. She couldn't have got rid of 'em any better if she had tried.

Miss Euphemia Perkins, our poetess of passion, has blossomed out as a sentimental song writer and expects to make her fortune at it, and probably will, as her first song is a good deal more sensible than some we have heard. Of course the music may make some difference, but it will probably be very classical as it is being written by Tage Butts, the gentlemanly and efficient snare drummer in the Hoppertown silver cornet band.

WILL GIVE LECTURE ON "SILENT WORLD"

The Rev. E. Gehl of St. John's Institute for the Deaf at St. Francis Accepts Invitation.

The Rev. Eugene Gehl of St. John's Institute for Deaf Mutes at St. Francis, Wisconsin, has accepted the invitation of Carroll Council, Knights of Columbus, to deliver his well known lecture, "The Silent World," at their hall on Tuesday evening, December 16, at eight o'clock. The Rev. Gehl is a very pleasing speaker and his close association with the education of the deaf gives him full knowledge of the systems used and the results of their application. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and the lecture is given complimentary to the public by Carroll Council No. 556. The committee in charge urge all members to be present and assist in extending a welcome to their distinguished visitor. Arrangements for a musical and literary program have been made, the numbers in which will be announced later. The Waterford Post, commenting on his lecture given there, says: "Father Gehl, connected with St. John's Institute for Deaf at St. Francis, is not only a great success in looking after the interests of that institution, but for a young man, is becoming known as an able and gifted speaker. In his lecture here he took their institute as an example to show the methods employed in the education of the children of silence. The subject was ably presented by Rev. Gehl and highly interesting. His descriptions were happily interspersed with clever sayings and anecdotes, which all went to make it a splendid entertainment."

HORSE SHOW GOWNS ARE MOST ELABORATE

Costumes, Rich, Rare and Racy—New Shades in Czarina Green and Hazel Brown Shown.

[Special to the Gazette.]

New York, Dec. 12.—The horse had nothing on the ladies and the ladies had nothing on themselves—that is, hardly anything—at the annual horse-show at Madison Square Garden. What they had, however, was rich, rare, and racy as befits a horse-show toilet. Velvet proved to be the prime favorite both for the afternoon suit effects and the evening gowns. It was there in the new shades of Czarina green, hazel brown, fuchsia, Parisian blue and Dullbury rose, but always and all ways black was the winner. Viewing the latest styles on million dollar models is what the horse-show means and if you are going to accept it as your criterion what has received the final horse stamp of approval seek out your dressmaker immediately and have her make you a black velvet evening gown.

One exquisite model was of chiffon velvet with the skirt slit and draped up in front in sparkling tapers like effect of the decollete and the neck. There was of it—was of black velvet lace. A gorgeous red velvet rose added a touch of color to the corsage and the decollete and short sleeves were edged with a pink band.

A striking jet trimmed black velvet had the draperies of the skirt caught up on the left side front with a large jet medallion finished with a tassel of jet. The bodice cut out with a very low square neck was of finest net in delicate striped pattern over flesh color chiffon. A narrow jet trimming outlined the neck and finished the short sleeves and a jet cord girdled the waist and finished directly in front with another medallion and tassel.

A black velvet relieved by a bodice of black satin lace was very effective. It had a band of sable outlining one side of the V shaped neck. The outer side was finished with a band of brilliants. A tunic of black velvet edged with the sable topped the straight round length velvet skirt. A butterfly of brilliants finished the corsage, and the lace sleeves which were mere shoulder caps were edged with brilliants.

Far positively trimmed everything, fitch being the favorite on brown costumes of duvetyne and velvet, and civet on the suits of black. Sable and stunk were the favored trimmings on the evening gowns. Scarcely any of the bizarre dyed fur were flaunted proving the joyful fact that in dyeing they died quickly from the favor of the well groomed woman.

Ask for your hat it, too, must be black velvet or no velvet at all. You may have it large and of shirred or fluted velvet or it may be tiny and perky in the extreme. Alzettes and Paradise continue to weather the storm of adverse criticism and custom snatching out just to show that your continued sway is on the wing as it were many hats particularly the larger shapes were trimmed in shaded rose wreaths, clusters of snowy gardenias or single roses of argumentation proportions and Futurist hue.

Fur was also in evidence on the headgear especially on swagging little velvet turbans that looked like something a Russian Turk would affect but chic without. A new shape that the horse-show seems to have fittingly ushered into view was a tiny brimless derby of blocked velvet.

As for the suits, combination ones with skirts and coats of different materials, and colors had the most entries. One of the most stunning was a skirt of broad black satin with a coat of Russian green velvet banded with ermine in cable. It was a coat and collar and a new shape that the horse-show seems to have fittingly ushered into view was a tiny brimless derby of blocked velvet.

cloaked. A few in the maiden class came forward with a new enfilade the most salient feature of which was a bunch of hair pulled down on the forehead a la forelock. This seemed going it a bit too far and as a settled fashion it will, no doubt come a cropper. Possibly the forelock wearers had been mixing their horseshow drinks, horsenecks, and ponies of brandy, doncherknow, and it had gone to their heads.

NINE NEW MEMBERS FOR THE LAUREAN

Girls' High School Literary Club Make Late Selection This Fall—Plan a Banquet.

Gladys Franklin, Helen Kelle, Helen Franklin, Mildred Clark, Helen Green, Eleanor Burke, Ruth Gaver, Harriet Carle and Josephine Bliss were elected into the Laurean society yesterday afternoon at their regular meeting in the high school. The selection of new members this fall has been unusually late, for the reason that they wished to have but one election. The first three mentioned will not be taken into the society until a later date, the others assuming their initiation at once. A pink carnation was presented to each new member last evening as an appreciation that they wished to become society members of the Laurean. A banquet is being planned for Saturday, the twentieth, but definite arrangements have not been completed.

OVER EIGHTY DESIRE CITIZENSHIP PAPERS

Applications Will be Passed Upon by Judge George Grimm on February 25 Next.

Eighty-five applications for citizenship papers have been filed with Clerk of the Circuit Court Jesse Earl for action upon by Judge George Grimm on February 25 next and it is probable that this number will be increased to a considerable extent before that time. According to a recent ruling of the Immigration Bureau old first papers will be honored on application for second papers for an indefinite time to come. It is believed, however, that most of those who held them have by this time received second papers. From now on the applications for second papers promise not to exceed the immigration in the same period. This will probably consist of southern Europeans to Belgium and Janesville and Norwegian and Swedish farm laborers. In the northern counties of the state, however, it promises to continue indefinitely and foreigners will be naturalized in great numbers.

"King Lear is a great character," remarked the friend. "Yes," answered the actor; "I suppose you remember my performance last season?" "No, I must confess I have never seen you in the part." YOU ARE RICHER BY TWENTY-TWO CENTS

In Theory the per Capita Wealth is Now Greater Than It Was a Year Ago.

The undivided profits of the United States, Inc., for the year now closing amount to 22 cents per inhabitant of the territory between Canada and Hudson, between the Statue of Liberty and the Barbary coast. Every person, theoretically, is 22 cents richer.

Did you get yours?

Neither did several other people. It is Christmas shopping time, and it is high cost of living time, and 22 cents would pay for two eggs at a bargain counter, or a Christmas noellette for the head of the house—but the tide of prosperity is theoretical. The figures, however, are comforting. Here they are, fresh from the statistical bureau at Washington:

Total money in country	$3,720,070,016.00
Per capita (if it were equally shared)	24.56
Per capita last year	24.34
Per capita increase (theoretical)	.22
Total money in circulation	8,363,738,449.00

The Make-Up Pieces.

"Did you ever help put a puzzle together?" "No; my wife always assembles herself alone."—Judge.

NATIONALITY UNKNOWN.

"Norah, are these French sardines that you have given me?" "Sure, Oi don't know, ma'am. They were 'past speakin' when we opened the tin!"

The perfect nail ought to be white and naturally polished; transparent without being too thin; slightly pink and not brittle; length to the ends of the fingers. Such are the nails of those possessing refinement, correct natural taste and tact.

Sam Jimpeon, colored, had a colored neighbor of some means, who was unkind enough to build a high board fence about his yard, wherein grew many luscious melons. One day Sam found a hole in the fence, and, licking his lips, he started to crawl through. The neighbor happened to be standing near the hole, "Heah, you!" he cried, "whah you gwine?" "Tee gwine back," said Sam, quickly suiting action to word.

SCIENCE NOTES

The sanction of the Australian Parliament has been asked for a gigantic bridge enterprise which it is proposed to erect across the harbor to connect Sydney with North Sydney. It will be about half a mile long and will cost about $13,750,000 and its construction will occupy about seven years. Besides four railroad tracks, the bridge will accommodate three roadways from 15 to 35 feet in width.

The manifold uses of paper has been increased recently by the manufacture of a circular saw made of this material, which is said to be very successfully used in the sawing of fine lumber, doing this character of work more satisfactorily than the best saws of steel. In the manufacture of veneers, the manufacturer is enabled to make use of the lumber just as it comes from the saw without planing or further treatment of any kind.

Woolen garments, especially hard finished ones, such as serges, soon become shiny from wear and the problem is to remove the shine. Some tailors in doing this use a wire brush, which operates to pick up a surface resembling nap and sometimes sand paper and fine emery cloth is used in rubbing off the shine. This, of course, requires skilful handling. It is believed that some means may be devised by which an unskilled person may effectually remove the shine from time to time, as occasion may require.

The automatic professor is a mechanical means of teaching language which has just been introduced and which promises to become a favorite because of the ease and convenience with which it enables one to acquire a language. The device consists of a combination of the phonograph with a piece of mechanism which operates a reel on which are printed words and sentences so that the student is enabled to see the word at the same time that he hears it. The phonograph alone has already been utilized for the teaching of language with some success, but the efficacy of the new combination is much greater and the student acquires a greater familiarity with the language both written and spoken in less time. It is also applicable to elementary instruction in music.

The extent to which a public swimming pool may become fouled in use is demonstrated by the result of some tests which were made in a Western pool during the past summer. A fresh-water pond of 100,000 gallons contained 500 bacteria to the cubic centimeter at the start of the day, and at the ending, after it had been made use of by 350 bathers, the number of bacteria was found to have increased to 32,000. Electrified sea water has been found to be a powerful sterilizing agent to be used in the light against noxious bacteria in swimming baths, and it has the additional recommendation that it is very cheap. It costs about $10 per thousand gallons to produce this and 30 gallons placed in a 50,000-gallon tank will keep the water free from bacteria organisms for several days.

CULBERTSON GUILTY OF TRIPLE MURDER

(By Associated Press.)

Williston, N. D., Dec. 12.—Clarence Culbertson, charged with the murders of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Dillon and their 17 year old daughter, was found guilty by a jury which reported last night, recommending life imprisonment as the punishment.

The Dillons were shot to death several years ago. The cause of the murders is unknown.

HIS DISAPPEARANCE WORRIES FRIENDS

Clarence E. Bell.

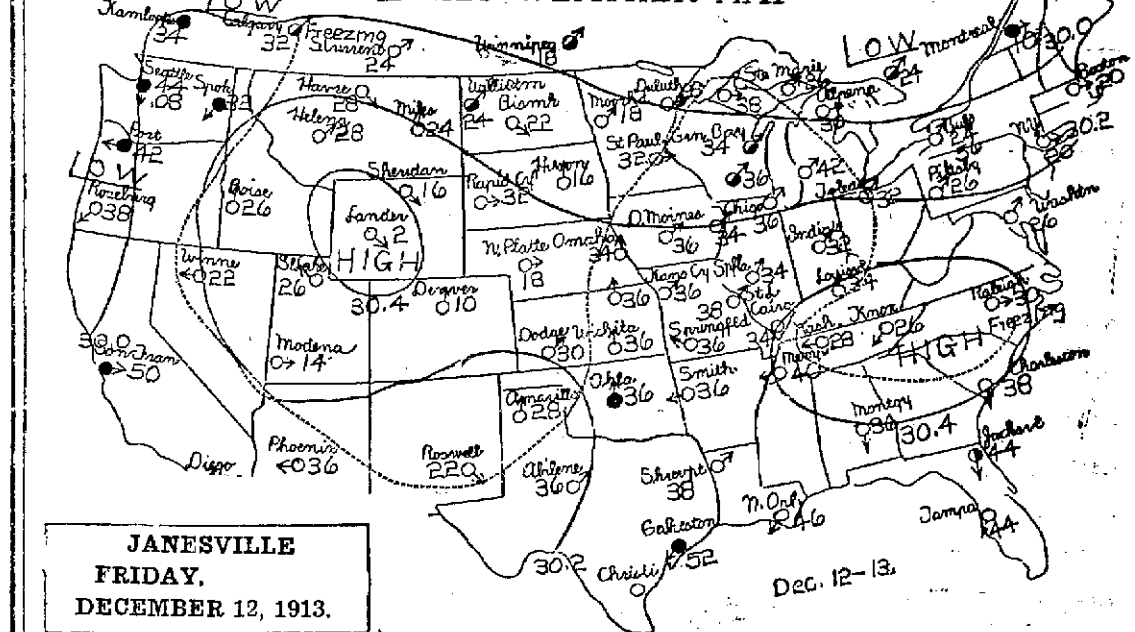

On August 14 last Clarence E. Bell of Ardmore, Okla., kissed his wife and three babies goodbye and left on a business trip for Dallas, Texas. On the fifteenth he walked out of the Oriental hotel, Dallas, and detectives who have been employed by the family say there is no more hearing case of complete disappearance on record.

The disappeared man is twenty-five years of age, very erect, five feet ten inches in height, weighs about 150 pounds and has light brown hair and hazel eyes.

DAILY WEATHER MAP

JANESVILLE
FRIDAY,
DECEMBER 12, 1913.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., 75th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50°, and 100°. Clear; partly cloudy; cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 12 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

The barometer is still high throughout the interior of the United States, and fair weather prevails. Low pressure attended these disturbances. It is warmer throughout the Mississippi valley, on account of southerly winds flowing into the depression over Canada. Chinook winds still occur along the eastern front of the Rockies. It is cold in the plateau region.

Quiet, But Visible.

Maude—"She's such a quiet little person that I'm surprised to hear she's wearing a diaphanous skirt." Edna—"Perhaps she believes in the old saying that little girls should be seen, but not heard."

Something the Public Misses.

"They were picked up in the open sea," says the Times, "just after their vessel, the schooner Marjorie Brown, which had sprung a leak, was about to sink." That's the trouble with an unillustrated paper. The public is deprived of seeing a picture of a vessel just after it is about to sink.—New York Mail.

Business Difficulty.

Many a woman finds it exceedingly difficult to give her husband a liberal allowance out of his salary.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Cultivate Graciousness.

Nothing adds more to the charm of life than graciousness. Rough bluntness is never a valuable possession. People who are unattractive are self-asserting, conceited, insolent, stubborn. They insist on having their own way and never make concessions.

No Room for Jesus

By REV. PARLEY E. ZARTMANN, D.D.
Secretary of Extension Department
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Because there was no room for them in the inn.—Luke 2:7.

Another Christmas was here soon, and in many lands devout Christians will sing the Christmas songs and tell the Christmas story; churches will be filled with splendor, hearts with love, and life with gladness. But let us consider the first Christmas, the tragedy of it, and the reception given to him who came to be Israel's Messiah and the world's Savior.

No room in the inn. Is there a more pathetic sentence anywhere in the Scriptures? The humble peasants who had come from Galilee and who sought shelter in one of the village caravansaries were denied this privilege; so they both took shelter in a stable; and there Jesus was born. No room for the King! The pathos of it is almost too deep for words.

But that was always the answer while Jesus was alive; he himself described it when he said: Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head. Misunderstood at home, neglected by his friends, deserted by his disciples, betrayed by one of them, and crucified by the rulers—Nazareth, Capernaum, Jerusalem—no room for Jesus.

Through the centuries it has been the same; that first night on earth was a prophesy, for in spite of apostles, martyrs, saints and reformers Jesus had not found room in religious, political, social or individual spheres of life in the case of the millions who have gone on their way either unheeding or indifferent. O the tragedy of the centuries—no room for Jesus. The Lord of all despised by the many. The region of outer darkness is filled with those who said, We will not have this one rule over us; depart; no room for the King!

"Room for pleasure, room for business, but for Christ the crucified. Not a place that he can enter—In your heart for which he died?"

No room for Jesus. It is true today. Christ is not wanted, and the Bethlehem story repeats itself. In the city life proof is found in the legalized saloon and all that goes with it, in corrupt and vicious government, in loose laws and looser enforcement, in dishonest business, in social laxity and impurity. In many homes evidence is seen in the character of the books in the library, the pictures upon the walls, careless, ill-tempered and profane language and conversation, and the ungodly habits of parents and the irreverence and disobedience of children. He who came to make home life heaven has been denied his place.

And just as our knowledge about this Jesus is greater than in that time, so is our responsibility heavier, our shame deeper, our sin greater. "We know him in all the light which his word and which all subsequent history cast upon him. We know him too—and this is our weightiest responsibility—in the claims which are set up eternally by the Cross of Calvary." What will we say to him in the end?

What is wrong? Why do we keep Christ out? Why are our hearts closed against him? Is it opposition? No, not usually. Let us look at Bethlehem, for there is a slight parallel. Any Jewish mother however humble would have rejoiced at the great honor which came to Mary, and any home however lowly would have been made ready for Jesus. Any ruler, rabbi, or priest then in Bethlehem would have taken any step necessary to welcome Jesus, if he had known. But it was a time when every available space was taken by pilgrims, these peasants did not look like promising guests, people were pre-occupied with what they considered weightier matters, and so literally Christ was crowded out; even in the public place, there was no room in the inn—the inn was full.

Bethlehem will rise up and condemn us. If it had known the day of its visitation, room would have been made for Jesus, he would have had a royal reception. But you know about him; he has sent word to you; he has been waiting for a place in your heart; you know who he is and what he will do for you; you have heard the story of his love and grace and power, and still—no room for Jesus.

"Behold, I stand at the door and knock." Will you not let him in? I said this text was the most pathetic verse in the Bible; but it is not so pathetic as the tragedy of the men and women of today who are pre-occupied with the world, the flesh and the devil, and who in wilful and culpable rejection crowd Christ out of their lives, who give themselves over to the things of time and sense, and send Christ to the stable. Come, now, and let us reason together.

THE PANAMA CANAL

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawash."

THE Panama canal, which will soon be open for business at the old stand, is a 50-mile gash of Nature, which would be visible from the moon with aid of the Yerkes telescope. It is the largest alteration and improvement on the planet which has been accomplished by man up to date and has been done in the past ten years by 100,000 workmen, a few sets of high powered brains and a shipload of mosquito netting.

For many hundred years men have wanted to dig the Panama canal, and several very costly attempts have been made. But while plenty of help could be secured and boatloads of money was available, the exact model of brain required could not be found and no attention was paid to mosquito netting. As a result, while the Panama district became one of the most flourishing cemeteries in the world it has never been navigable to any extent. This is a scientific age, and nothing proves it more extensively than the fact that when the United States engineers tackled the job of moving several hundred million tons of earth and rock they began by chasing a mosquito into a corner and killing him with a kerosene can. As a result Panama, which was once a trifle more fatal than bichloride of mercury tablets, is now one of our leading winter resorts and the workman who tires of life and wishes to fade away as former workmen once did by thousands has to hire a personal friend to kill him with a club.

The Panama canal unites the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and severs the neighboring feeling between England and America. By means of the canal 30,000 ton ships will be hoisted deftly over the mangled back bone of the continent and dumped safely into deep water on the other side. It has cost upwards of $500,000,000, and no one has gotten rich off of it. Thus, without going into tedious dimension details we can say with confidence that it is the eighth wonder of the world and the first wonder of American politics.

In order to dig the Panama canal the government had to cut a mountain in two, build a large navigable lake, pull a river up by the roots, build locks big enough to hold an exposition building, change a climate, establish a revolutionless Central American republic and keep several thousand politicians at bay. All this was successfully accomplished under Col. Goethals, the world's greatest locksmith and geographical surgeon—which leads us to hope that the government will now have the courage to tackle the Mississippi river and make it behave.

DROPSY TREATED FREE

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., The Great Heart and Dropsy Specialist, Will Send a New $3.75 Treatment Free.

Many "Hopeless" Cases Cured After 5 to 15 Doctors Failed. At first no disease is apparently more harmless than dropsy, a little swelling of the eyelids, hands or ankles or abdomen. Finally there is great shortness of breath, smothering spells, sitting up to breathe, cough, fainting, even bursting of the limbs and a lingering and wretched death if the dropsy is not removed. Dr. Miles has been known as a leading specialist in this disease for 30 years. His liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration. You may not have an expert opinion, but the Grand Dropsy Treatment consists of four dropsy remedies in one, also Tonic Tablets and Pura-Laxa for removing the water. This treatment is especially prepared for each patient and is at least ten times as successful as that of most physicians. It usually relieves the first day, and removes swelling in six days, in most cases. Delay is dangerous.

Mrs. O. J. Taylor, Clinton, Texas, cured after 3 physicians failed. Mrs. Sarah A. Boyd, 22 So. Frederick St., Oelwein, Ia., cured after giving up hope. Mrs. Elvina Souders, Leavenworth, Mo., cured after 3 physicians failed. Mrs. A. J. Nash, Minn. Nub, cured. Limbs swollen up to the body. Mrs. Y. C. Gieseler, Wis., cured after 6 physicians failed. Mrs. Julia Broun, Dugdale, Minn., cured after being pronounced incurable by three physicians. Mr. John T. Alexander, Elwood, Ill., cured after 4 failed. Dr. Miles' book contains a large number of remarkable cures.

All afflicted readers may have his new Dropsy Book Examination Chart, Opinion, Advice, and a $3.75 Treatment free. Write at once. Describe your case. Address: Dr. Franklin Miles, Dept. DB, 718 to 728 Main Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

CHRISTMAS CHARITY COMMENCES AT HOME

But No "Good-fellow" Lets It Stop There—No Janesville Child Should Want for a Gift. "A gift for every child, no child without a gift, and no home without its Christmas cheer," is a good motto for the campaign of the Associated Charities, but it will fail of realization unless those with an abundance are inspired to share with the poor and unfortunate. Christmas should be a time of goodwill and peace on earth, and these qualities can not exist or persist without manifestations of brotherly love and charity. Many have responded promptly to the call for gifts of money, of provisions or useful articles, and presents for children, but there are many more who have forgotten or put off from time to time the benefactions which, if sufficient, will bring joy to every needy home in Janesville. The machinery for distributing the gifts has been provided. Money, checks or other gifts may be left at the Gazette office where the Associated Charities will call for them, and on Christmas day a committee of nine young ladies will distribute them where they will be best appreciated. They will not be misplaced, nor will they be given to the unworthy. Let every man in Janesville feel under obligation to make some child happy.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY WILL MEET TONIGHT

Janesville's New Organization Plans a Most Interesting Program for This Evening. The program as arranged for this evening at the fourth regular meeting of the Janesville Dramatic Society, will be the best held thus far. The business for the meeting will be cut short to allow sufficient time in which to present the numbers. The second and third acts from "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" will be presented by the following members: Vera Lintz, E. D. McGowan, Andrew Gibbons, William Posenchoen, Charles Ayres, Walter Carie, Mary Buckmaster, Kate Wilson and Mabel Greenman. Miss Evelyn Welsh will discuss "Modern Methods of Producing and Presenting Plays." Miss Julia Loveloy will give the summary of the first act of the play already mentioned, with a brief outline of the second and third acts. This number will come just before the reading of the acts, allow the play to become more firmly fixed in the minds of the individual members. "The Old Time Theatre and Methods of Presenting Plays" will be given by Miss Mary Roberts. "James Murdoch" will be the tonic to be presented by Miss Jennie Boomer.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

MAKING THE MOST OF THINGS.
HAVE YOU heard of the American Society for Thrift? It is the latest thing in national improvement societies, and "its aim," says Banker S. W. Straus, one of its founders, "is to promote nationally, the individual thrift which is the basis of good citizenship and community prosperity."

There certainly cannot be any question but that the American people need to cultivate the habit of thrift.

And by thrift, mind you, I mean thrift, not parsimony; not mere saving, not the kind of economy which consists simply in doing without.

One reason why the American people are not more thrifty is that very few of them know what thrift is. I don't see but what we shall have to cut less, as a neighbor of mine said the other day. She was appalled by the size of her bills and that was the only way to cut down she could think of—to do without. She didn't seem to realize that she might learn to buy to greater advantage, select more wisely, and utilize more thoroughly. No, her one solution was to do without. Now that's not thrift, but it's as near as most of us Americans ever come to understanding it.

Listen to what Noah Webster says about economy. "Economy avoids all waste and extravagance and applies money to the best advantage. Economy is a virtue; parsimony is a vice." And that's definitely of thrift goes even further. "Thrift," he says, "means more than saving; it means earning, working, planning, increasing, as well as conserving." That is, thrift in its highest and broadest sense means individual efficiency both in production and expenditure. It means getting the biggest possible financial value out of your abilities and then getting the highest possible comfort and happiness value out of that financial value.

In short, thrift is the art of making the most of things.

Are you thrifty in that sense?

Are you making the most of your opportunities and abilities?

And are you making the most out of whatever financial return these abilities bring you?

They say that a French family could live on what an American family wastes and that a Chinese family could live on what a French family wastes. And yet the French family (I cannot vouch for the Chinese) seem to get just as much comfort and happiness out of life as we Americans.

That means we spend more money than they for the same value; and we do it not only in the management of our households but in many other directions.

I think the American people have always shied away from the idea of thrift because they connected it with parsimony and thought it unworthy of them. But surely making the most of things is no worthy ideal.

black cloth by rubbing them with raw potato.

THE TABLE.
Rice Pudding Without Eggs.—Put into a baking dish a cupful of rice, sweeten with a cupful of sugar; season with a teaspoonful each of salt, grated nutmeg and cinnamon. Scatter through the rice one-half cupful of seeded raisins and pour over it six cupfuls of milk. If the pudding looks dry add another cupful of milk fifteen minutes before taking from the oven.

Spaghetti With Swiss Cheese.—Boil a half pound of spaghetti into bits not more than an inch and a half in length and boil in slightly salted water for twenty minutes. Turn to a hot colander and set at the side of the range to drain. Grate enough Swiss cheese to make a generous half cupful and turn into a sauce pan with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Stir well; add the hot spaghetti, toss and stir for a minute, with just enough to melt the cheese; add a dash of paprika and serve in a hot dish.

Sour Milk Gingerbread.—Mix together a half cupful of sugar, a half cupful of molasses, a tablespoonful of butter, a half teaspoonful of ginger. Set the bowl containing this mixture at the side of the range until the contents are warm, then beat until light in color and foamy in appearance. Now beat in a cupful of sour milk, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a tablespoonful of boiling water, and two and a half cupfuls of flour. Turn into a greased shallow pan and bake in a steady oven. Eat hot.

Almond Filling.—Beat three cupfuls of powdered sugar into the whites of three eggs. Blanch one pound of sweet almonds. Pound in a mortar until they make an even paste with a little sugar. Then add to the whites of the eggs and flavor with a little vanilla. Stir thoroughly. Cauliflower Salad.—Cut a young cauliflower into clusters, boil tender, drain and lay in the ice until very cold. Arrange on leaves of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing. This makes a delicious salad.

Potato Puff.—Beat a cupful of mashed potato to a soft, creamy mass, with a cupful of warm milk and an even tablespoonful of butter. Have ready two eggs, whipped light, and add to the cream. Pepper and salt to your liking; turn into a warm and buttered pudding dish; set in a quick oven and bake covered, for half an hour, then brown. Serve at once before it falls.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

OF ETERNITY.
 This new day is born
 Into eternity
 At night will return
 Behind it all
 No eye ever did
 So soon it forever
 From all eyes is hid
 So here hath been dawning
 Another blue day
 Think, wilt thou let it Slip useless away
 —Thomas Carlyle.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.
 A delicious filling for cakes which will always be asked for again is Lemon Honey. Grate the rinds of three well-scrubbed lemons, press out and strain the juice; put all together in a double boiler, add a quarter of a cup of butter and a half pound of sugar. When very hot mix two spoonfuls with the well-beaten yolks of six eggs. Then add the eggs to the mixture and stir until smooth and thick. This filling will keep in a cool place for some time.

Sea Foam Popcorn.—Discard all unpopped kernels from four quarts of corn and place in the oven to warm. As soon as a cup of granulated sugar and a quarter of a cup of water boils take from the fire and add a few drops of pistachio coloring, then pour over the corn in a fine stream. Stir briskly and sprinkle with powdered sugar to separate the grains, then turn out on waxed paper.

Steamed Fruit Roll.—Roll good rich biscuit dough half an inch thick, spread with butter and a layer of good jam or marmalade. Roll tight and place in a steamer on a plate and steam for half an hour. Serve with any desired sauce.

Burnt Almond Fudge.—Brown blanched almonds in the oven and chop enough to fill a cup. In a granite pan brown a cupful of granulated sugar well melted; add two-thirds of a cup of milk, and when the sugar is all dissolved, add a tablespoonful of butter and another cup of sugar. Boil for five minutes, then test in cold water; if creamy when stirred, the candy is done. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract, and turn out to cool in a buttered dish.

Gelatin Filling for Cake.—Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin in a tablespoonful or two of cold water. Boil two cups of granulated sugar and eight tablespoonfuls of water until it threads; pour over the gelatin, flavor, then beat thick and white. Add a little chopped chrysanthemum.

Masculine Contrariness.
 A Chicago woman says that 60 per cent. of the men would rather contribute to the purchase of a new carpet for the church than to wear it out afterward. The other 40 per cent. merely wear out the carpet and refuse to contribute to the new one.

Houses for Ghost.
 Three houses for a ghost were recently built at Rangoon, Burma, India. The houses were four-storied ones made of paper and cardboard. They were built in the course of a night to serve as a resting-place for the soul of a Chinaman.

Things Worth Knowing.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

The Fence or the Ambulance.
 Twas a dangerous cliff, as they freely confessed,
 Though to walk near its crest was no pleasant
 But over the terrible edge there had slipped
 A duke and full many a peasant
 So the people said something would have to be done.
 But their projects did not at all tally.
 Some said "put a fence round the edge of the cliff;"
 Some "an ambulance down in the valley."

But the cry for the ambulance carried the day.
 For it spread through the neighborhood
 A fence may be useful or not, it is true,
 But each heart was brim-full of pity
 For those who had slipped over that dangerous cliff,
 And the dwellers in highway and valley

Gave pound or gave peace, not to put up a fence,
 But an ambulance down in the valley.
 For the cliff is all right, if you're careful," they said.
 "And if folks even slip or are dropping,
 It isn't the slipping that hurts them so much,
 As the shock down below when they're stopping.
 Then an old sage remarked: "It's a marvel to me
 That people give far more attention
 To repairing the results, than to stopping the cause.
 When they'd much better aim at prevention."

Let us stop at its source all this mischief," cried he,
 "Come, neighbors and friends, let us rally,
 If the cliff we will fence, we might almost dispense
 With the ambulance down in the valley."
 "Oh! He's a fanatic," the others rejoined.
 "Dispense with the ambulance?"
 He'd dispense with all charities too,
 If he could;
 But not! We'll protect them forever;
 Aren't we picking up people as fast as they fall?
 And shall this man dictate to us?
 Shall he?
 Why should people of sense stop to put up a fence
 While their ambulance works in the valley?"

"Tut a sensible few who were practical too,
 Will not bear with such nonsense much longer,
 They believe that prevention is better than cure."

And their party will soon be stronger.
 Encourage them then, with your purse, voice and pen,
 And (while other philanthropists dally)
 They will scorn all pretense and put up a stout fence
 On the cliff that hangs over the valley."

Printed by permission of the Illinois Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis for the suggestion that we all spend a generous percent of our Christmas funds to aid this worthy cause.

True Graciousness.
 Real graciousness is a virtue exercised, not a virtue assumed. We have to go back to St. Paul's epistles to be reminded that charity, which is really love, unselfishness and which "suffereth long and is kind," "vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up," is at the root of all courtesy and graciousness. It needs constant practice. It has to be willed often in lock, or word, or act when the inclination is against it, but if practiced faithfully it blossoms in the life.

After the Game.
 "Well, anyhow, Miss Vassar, you'll admit that our boys played very well. The game was lost through just one error." "Yes, so was Paradise."

Classified Want Ad?

"Our town is the place to sell those surplus onions, I'll take them in tomorrow," said a man to his wife the other evening. Now this man don't live a thousand miles from here, so for obvious reasons we will leave him nameless.

"Would it not be a wise plan to put off your trip until you run an ad in our paper that you have onions to sell; I study the 'want ad' page daily and it seems it is well patronized; sort of a little clearing-house as it were. Best get in touch with your prospective buyers through its columns."

Mr. Man couldn't see it that way. Accordingly he journeyed to the city the following day and tried to dispose of his onions.

In the vernacular of today it was a case of "nothing doing." He returned home at eve, tired and discouraged; about half of his onions with him.

Then the woman in the case persuaded him to run an "ad." He did so! And before that ad was "killed" he had disposed of his onions and bought his neighbors supply and disposed of them also.

When we all learn, that as far as trying to dispose of anything we have for sale be concerned, the only way to sell is by advertising, we will have taken a long stride in the right direction. Time is saved by this method, and time is the most valuable asset we have. Learn how to save it by using the Want Ad Columns.

Words of Praise For Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy.

"How thankful we are to you for getting a hold of our wonderful remedy. My wife could not have had but a short time to take your wonderful remedy when she did. She was more of those paroxysms pains she was having would have killed her without a doubt. Now she is free from all pain, free from heart trouble and free from the distressing vomiting—all the result of five treatments—and the expulsion of five or six hundred gall stones. Now she is able to eat anything she wants and her appetite is good and before taking your medicine she had no appetite and when she ate anything she would suffer from so doing and could not sleep at night; since taking your treatment she sleeps well all night long." T. A. Neill, Rockwell, Texas.

The above letter convinced them that more than anything we could say in behalf of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. Sufferers should try one dose of this Remedy and see how it works. It is a fact that they can be restored to health. Nearly all Stomach Ailments are caused by the clogging of the intestinal tract with mucus and catarrhal secretions allowing poisonous fluids into the stomach and otherwise deranging the digestive system. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy not only removes these secretions without a surgical operation and puts an end to Colic Attacks, Gas, etc., but it also cleanses the system and restores the usual symptoms of Stomach, Liver and Intestinal Ailments. Ask your druggist about Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Chemist, 125 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill., for free booklet on Stomach Ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored to health by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. For sale in Janesville by J. P. Baker & Son, 1212 W. Milwaukee St., and druggists everywhere.

THE MARSHAL

By MARY RAYMOND SHIPMAN ANDREWS
Author of The Perfect Tribute
The Better Treasure, Etc.

Charles Thelin, his valet of many years, unpacked his Highness's belongings busily in Lieutenant Aladenze's bedroom; the Prince heard—subconsciously attentive to small things—as the servant moved about, yet he stood lost in his thoughts, as the last officer left him. One hand lay on a table littered with papers of the expedition; the gray dull eyes were yet fixed on the door that had shut out his friends. There was no hint of wavering in the poised mind; there was no shadow of doubt in his thoughts, yet the men were very human, and tonight great loneliness seized him. These good fellows who were risking their lives and their fortunes for him, were devoted to him without doubt, yet what did it amount to? That they hoped for advancement through him, it would be absurd to resent; one and all they believed that he would be Emperor; they knew that he would be Emperor; their fortunes were made if tomorrow should succeed. They had much friendliness for him—he realized that under his father's taciturn manner he had his mother's gift of winning hearts and that his followers loved him—in a way. But what did it amount to—love of followers for a Prince? He longed tonight for something more personal, and suddenly, with a pang, he knew what he wanted. He turned to the door and called himself to sleep at the Tuilleries twenty-five years before, he wanted his mother.

The tie between Hortense and this youngest and dearest son had been closest, and this was the first great event of his eventful life in which he played his part. Before his attempt on Strasburg, now three years ago, he had prepared two letters, one in case of success, one of failure, to be sent off post-haste to the queen, ill at Archberg, tonight there was no one to write to, no one to whom his success or failure meant more than to himself. All that warmth and eager hopefulness which had outlasted danger and exile and illness and age, had gone from earth, and the body of Hortense lay in the little church of Reuil, near Malmaison. The Emperor-to-be dropped into a chair, his head fell and his outstretched arms rested on the arms of the chair, and the writing under his hand was wet. The weakness was only for a moment, and quietly, as he did everything, the Prince pulled himself together. He sat erect and listened. There was a rushing of cloth and a clatter of silver in the bedroom, and through the other door there came a light sound of a paper turned, of a gay song sung softly. And a glow suddenly warmed the Prince's heart; here was some one who had known his mother, who had been, indeed, for a few years, his son; here was some one who cared for him, he believed it, with a half-consuming flame of devotion. Since the man's arrival from Virginia six years before, to have him near himself had been a pleasure. He was Bonaparte; he seemed to bring back the freshness of his early days, of the young confidence when his star shone for him, distant perhaps, but undimmed by the black clouds which drove now across it. He was a bit of superstition about Francois, as well, with an idea, which he spoke to no one, that a pivotal interest of his career rested in the modest figure.

"Have a care of that young man, my Prince," he said General Montholon, the old soldier. "Do not trust him too far."

The Prince's faint smile gleamed. "I would trust the empire to his loyal heart, General."

"But yes," answered the general, "to his heart, but not to his head. He is of the dreamers—a visionary. He might ruin many months' work with one good intention." And the Prince reflected, but did not agree.

He rose, this night in Boulogne, as the paper rustled and the little French provincial chanson sounded from the room where Francois Beaupre, now his secretary, had been installed, and stepped into the closed door.

"Dieux cœurs! on que je suis bete,"

Francois sang softly. The Prince smiled. He knew the song and its place in the Prince's history. As he opened the door the singing stopped; the young man sprang respectfully to his feet, a letter grasped in his hand, and stood waiting.

"Sire!" he said.

Prince Louis flung out his hand with a gesture of impulsiveness strange to his controlled manner, yet not out of drawing to those who knew him well. "Ah, Francois," he cried, "let the titles go for tonight. Say, 'Louis' as on that day when we first saw each other when the four children played together in the old chateau ruins. I have a great desire to hear some one who loves to speak my name, simply as friend to friend. With all those good fellows"—and he tossed a wave of the hand to the door by which the conspirators had left him—"with my officers, it is necessary to keep my loyalty—I realize it. But you, my inspired peasant, are different. You stand in no class; you would guard my dignity more quickly than I, myself. I can trust it to you. The memory of my mother's voice calling me 'Louis' is in your heart; call me so, then, tonight, my friend, as if we were indeed the brothers we once had to be for five days." And Francois smiled his radiant exquisite smile and answered quietly. But yes, my brother—Louis. And went on, "I believe I shall not sleep tonight, Louis. I believe I am too happy to sleep."

As one reads a novel for relaxation in the strain of a critical business affair, Prince Louis caught at the distraction of this side issue. The next morning was planned to the last detail; there was nothing to do till daylight, yet he could not sleep at present. Here was a romance of some sort. He sank back on the cushions of the couch of Lieutenant Aladenze's smoking room and put his feet up luxuriously, and slowly lit a cigar of Havana.

"Tell me," he ordered, and the gentleness of appeal was in the order. "Sire," the young man began—and corrected himself. "Louis," he said. The Prince smiled dimly. "Since our landing I have known that a wonderful thing has happened to me. It is," he spoke lower—"it is the love of the woman who is to me the only one in the world."

Prince Louis, extended on the couch smoking, a picture of expressionless attention, cast his mind back rapidly back to the night when he had seen the white-clad, little girl framed in the ruins of the old castle, of a boy stepping to her side to champion her sudden embarrassment. The navy-lights eyes turned a kindly glance on the erect figure in its new uniform of an officer of the fortieth.

"I congratulate you, mon ami," he said gently. "To be by my chance the delightful little Mademoiselle Alixe of the old chateau?"

Beaupre turned scarlet. He was a marvelous son, this Prince Louis. How had he guessed? "She loves me—I have here a letter in which she tells me that she loves me. Will his Highness read it?"

His eyes turned a kindly glance on the step forward he held the paper toward Louis Napoleon.

"I thank you," the Prince said gravely. "Francois, what you have wished all your life is true. The good fairies have granted out of your wishes before the battle. That they will give you the other two on the day of the battle is the belief of your Alixe."

And below was written hurriedly, "Francois, I have loved you since I was a child."

The Prince gave back the letter with a respectful hand; then looked at Francois inquiringly. "What you have wished all your life, mon ami?" Francois laughed happily. "One who will not tire of his highness." And he told, in a few words, of that day when his self-restraint had given way and how, when his guard was down and he was on the point of telling her his long secret, he had come upon her in a way that Francois did not know it was an angel—had caught Alixe, and she had accused him of wishing always that she might love him. And now, meshed in that same net of his own recklessness, he was answering her in his own manner.

"Yes," he had said, "it was that which had been the wish of her life—that Alixe might love him!" And Francois laughed gaily, telling the simple entanglement to the Prince, who had been so quick and clear-sighted, my Alixe," he said. "For she knew even then it was not that I wished. He stopped, for in the quiet contained look of the emperor, he saw a something struck a chill to his delicately-poised sensitiveness. "What is it, Louis?" he cried out. "You do not think I mistake her—mistake Alixe?"

Prince Louis saw the dawning of understanding. He realized that he was well to take away a man's happiness and courage just before a fight? He remembered some words of Francois spoken three years before, words whose dramatic bareness he had then brushed aside as the knight of the old time went into battle. The young man had said, "he wore on his helmet the badge of his lady, and the thought of her in his heart." A man fights better so. Very well. This blind knight should have his letter, with the meaning he had read into it, for his lady's badge, and he should fight tomorrow with the thought of her in his heart. The letter suggested under meaning to the complicated Louis Bonaparte, but there is no need to hasten the felt of unhappiness. The resonant French voice spoke at last in an unused accent of cordiality and the Prince had, with ungrudging graciousness, accepted something from the man.

"The little billet-doux breathes love for you in each line—there is no question! But, mon ami, you have not finished your story." So Francois explained about the letter left with Lucy Beaupre and its premature sending. "That has reached her now—she knows now that I love her, she knows what has really been my lifelong wish—she has hurried this," and his hand crushed his note tenderly—"she has hurried this to me before the fight, that I might know her love also; that I might fight better for you, my Prince—Louis—with that joy in my heart."

Prince Louis, his head thrown back, his expressionless eyes watching the rings of smoke which drifted from his mouth—ring after ring, mounting in dream-like procession to the low ceiling, considered again. Somewhere in the chain of events of this love affair his keen practical sense felt a link that did not fit—a link that forced into connection. Vaguely he discerned how it was something had happened to the Virginia letter—there had been a confusion somewhere. To him the four words of Alixe's postscript were final. "Pietro sends his love." A subconscious reasoning made him certain that Pietro would not have come into such a letter if it had been indeed a love letter; that the three lines of writing just before the battle could not have held another man's name, if they had been written to the man whom she loved. Very likely, very surely the Prince concluded (these things); and then he lowered his cigar, and his gray dull eyes came down from the ceiling and rested kindly on the radiant face. You are right, my friend. It was an exquisite thought of your lady love to put this other weapon, this bright sword of happiness into your hand, to fight with tomorrow. Mon Dieu, we will reward her by sending her back a Marchion's baton by you—his Marchion's baton tomorrow, Francois! How would it sound, par exemple, to say, "Madame la Marechale?"

The light from Francois' eyes was like a lamp.

"My Prince—Sire—these are things I have desired all my life, all great things, but of them that one—the baton of a Marshal—is the least. If I might win his love—I have said; if I might help put you, Napoleon's place and shout 'Vive l'Empereur' for you on the throne of France; if I might fulfill the Emperor's prophecy and be not a 'Marshal some day' any longer but a Marshal of your empire—that is asking much of one lifetime, above all for a man born a peasant—is it not? Yet of those three wishes one wonderful fulfillment has come to me—he gripped his letter closer—and one, I believe tomorrow brings. Before tomorrow night, his eyes were lifted toward the ceiling of the room, and in them was the rapt look of the child of the farm house in the Jura, a look of seer of visions, a look that caught at the Prince's glance and made him draw his breath quickly. "Something above myself tells me," Francois said slowly, and the words came with a languid power, as if his personality were a medium, "that before tomorrow night I shall stand before the Emperor, and I shall have my Emperor over the body of a man who lies before you."

In the silence, the Prince's watch could be heard ticking. Francois shivered violently.

"Ugh!" he said, his teeth chattering. "It gives me the creeps, that trick of vision-seeing. I do not like it, and yet at times it seizes me. Why should it come to a man as happy as I am—a man who has dared to dare against the wishes of his good fairies—who holds one of them in his hand—he lifted the letter—who sees another in easy reach, and who," he smiled brilliantly, "who will be well content without the third, my Prince, the first two have been shivered again. 'Is the night raw? It is as if I were in a grave, this coldness," he said, looking about with a disturbed gaze, "yet my life is just beginning."

A first rose and tossed his clear to the fireplace. "It is my life that you are tired, Francois," he said in the tranquil tones which no peril disturbed. "The nerves of us all are stretched and yours are the finest string, and many a man at daylight will be warm enough to work that that awaits you. Sleep well—good night, my friend."

Later, in the darkness of his chamber, Prince Louis lay awake, his imagination filled with the man whose dramatic personality appeared to him as few had ever done. He thought of his own life, according to his lights not a bad life, radically strong and radically gentle, yet complicated, abounding from its start with many shadows and many stains; of the crystal clearness of this other's, with his three wishes in which he trusted as simply as a child would trust to the fairies. A smile almost tender stole across the mask-like features of the emperor as he dozed, but the girl will marry the man, he reflected. "Yet I am glad I left him his hope and his happiness." A vision of Francois' bearded look rose before him.

"The night is better so," the Prince murmured aloud, and his own sadness forgotten in another man's joy, he fell asleep.

CHAPTER XXXIX.
The Bugle-Call.

THE gray dawn of a Sunday morning began to break over the sleeping city of Boulogne, yet earlier than the dawn of the day there was a light, and men's heart beat fast to meet it. Scattered in lodging-houses and barracks Louis Napoleon's followers were waiting before daylight for the part they had to play. No man among them was as quiet, as still as nervous as the Prince, yet his as well as every gallant heart of them felt a throb of relief with its bound of excitement from a trumpet from the Austerlitz barracks, the barracks of the fourth artillery, Napoleon's own regiment, suddenly sounded.

It was the signal and in a moment the Prince and his escort were moving down the street toward Colonel Vaudrey's quarters, toward that ringing note not yet died out from the pulsing air. One could see a little bustle through the drowsy place—a blink of an eye here and there, a hasty summons, the early trumpet note might mean. But a handful of men in uniform was no sensation in the garrison town and the good citizens went back to their morning nap. The city was tranquil when Prince Louis reached the barracks-gates, and the soldier-blood in him rushed in a tide when he saw sixty mounted arillerymen posted at the entrance, and beyond, in the yard, statue-like, warlike, silent, the regiment formed in square. If the fourth artillery followed its colonel, if the day went well, this was the core of his army. Colonel Vaudrey was in the center of the square; the Prince marched quietly to him and as he came, with a sharp simultaneous clatter that was the music of Heaven to his ears, the whole regiment presented arms.

In the glowing light the soldiers who fronted toward him could see that the colorless face turned gray, but what was all, and quickly Colonel Vaudrey spoke to his men.

"Soldiers of the fourth artillery," he said loudly, "a revolution begins today under the new Emperor, the Emperor, Napoleon. He is before you, and comes to lead you. He has returned to his land to give back the people their rights, the army its greatness. He trusts in your courage, your devotion to accomplish his glorious mission. My soldiers, your colonel has answered for you. Shout then with me 'Long live Napoleon! Long live the Emperor!'"

OLD PEOPLE GAIN

Strength by Taking Vinol. Here is Proof.

So many cases like this are constantly coming to our attention that we publish it for the benefit of others.—Mr. John Widmayer of Jackson, Mich., says: "I am nearly 70 years of age, and was in a feeble condition but Vinol has done wonders for me. It is the best medicine to create strength I have ever seen and I have taken a good many of them: Last spring I was run down and worn out but I took Vinol and soon regained my strength. Vinol is certainly an invigorating tonic for old people."

It is the medicinal curative elements of the cod livers without oil aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which are contained in Vinol that makes it so efficient in such cases.

If you have an aged father, mother or anyone in your family who needs a strength-creating tonic, try Vinol on our offer to give back your money if it fails to benefit. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Janesville, Wis.

Fourth Quarter—Lesson XI. Joshua
7. December 14, 1913.

THE SIN OF ACHAN

(The Story)
The Book of Joshua is essentially historical. It is the record of the entrance upon and the conquest of Canaan. But on the plain narrative there are strung some jewels that flash in beauty and are at the same time of the highest utility for today.
This incident is one, although it must be admitted that it has a forbidding color, black as night and red as blood. In itself considered, the defeat at Ai was a petty affair. It was scarcely more than a preliminary incursion, for which a very small fraction of the army was thought to be amplified sufficient. But, in its moral effects, it was an irretrievable disaster. By it the Canaanites learned that the Israelites were not invincible.
By it the morale of the Israelites was damaged. The hearts of the people, so courageous before, now became limp like water. Joshua was quick to learn the gravity of the case. He spread the matter out before the Lord, with public and familiar tokens of contrition and an impassioned appeal. Joshua's prayer was timely, but it was not the prayer that was beyond a certain point could have been supreme folly. God put a period to Joshua's prayer when he said, "Get thee up!" The next thing required was quest for the cause of defeat and bringing of the guilty to punishment.
God Himself, in general terms, indicates the cause of the disaster, but He leaves it to Joshua to ferret out
the particular offense and offender.
The means to be employed is the one current in that day—appeal to
lot. In this instance it was to be verified by the confession of the guilty party. Achan was the original guilty. His crime was essentially treason. He got his gain at the cost of his country. He was inordinately selfish. For one Babylonish garment he cared not that a thousand were rolled in blood. That he might have one wedge of gold, he was willing to betray his country should lose treasure that could not be counted. Achan's first step in his descent to hell was vanity.
That robe of rich stuff, deeply dyed,
shot with threads of gold and silver,
and glistening with jewels, appealed to him. His next step was cupidity. He quickly counted the exchange value of the golden wedge and the shekels of silver. But his ill-gotten gains brought him only about misery. He must needs be secretive at once. Instead of displaying his robe, he must needs hide it. Instead of spending his wealth, he must bury it. Then came the sharp pangs of apprehension.
What a night that must have been just before the fateful lot-casting!
The confession of Achan had no moral value. It was purely judicial—the acknowledgment of the villain who feels the halter draw. The punishment of Achan was hideously con-dine. The advance of civilization is indicated by the fact that it could not be inflicted in our day for any offense whatever! A holocaust was made of him and his family, including even his dumb brutes. Possibly for the spectacle of it, he was dressed in the stolen Babylonish garment
and made to hold the silver and gold in his hands. Thus he was blotted out, of existence and deprived of the possibility of descendants.

The Teacher's Lantern.
A selfish and unscrupulous Trust
will do for America just what Achan did for Israel. The same course of action, either by individuals or associations of individuals, must bring the same results. Private at cost of public good creates conditions in which the gain is useless to the possessor.
The pettiest stockholder, who nonchalantly takes his dividend, is a party to the crime and guilty in the eyes of God. The process in the mind of a criminal, on the eve of detection or conviction, makes a fascinating study of psychology. To confess or not to confess—that is the question! How tenaciously he clings to the chance of some technical step in the process by which he may escape!
To "get away with it" is the absorbing passion of the criminal. If Joshua had kept on reiterating his words, there would have been no more virtue in it than passing a written prayer to a prayer-wheel and just leaving it to revolve. Prayer is essentially communion—with self; to find one's resources, with one's environment; to find what the circumstances require;
and with God, to have the human supported by the divine, so that the conditions may be met. When the process was complete in Joshua, God aid to him, "Get up!" One of the most superb touches of poetic genius appears in Hosea, when in his vision
he sees Israel returning from captivity, marching through this very Valley of Despair and Shame—God having transmitted it into a "Door of Hope!" Thermopylae, Bunker Hill, and Ai were defeats. Yet, in lessons taught and inspiration given, they outranked the most storied victories.
Achan is a strong commentary on the old text: "The wages of sin is death." "What shall it profit a man
if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" and "Ye can not serve God and mammon."

"I maintain," pursued the opinionat-

"You're wrong," persisted his equally opinionated friend. "If Eve had been
